shed area. The purpose is to prevent the contamination of the ground water that could endanger the public water supply. Special permits would have to be obtained for stable yards, paddocks or pastures and places of recreation. Any building other than a water works, pumping station and essential services, within 200 feet of the Mattapoisett River and its tributaries, would be prohibited as would any parking area, any use that could contaminate ground water.

The by-law would specify the condition that would have to be followed to build new homes in the area. One change would provide for a lot containing not less than 40,000 square feet (lots north of 195 are now specified to be that size).

Special permits from the Board of Appeals would be necessary for any use of the land other than rural-residential. The Board of Health and the River Valley Protection Committee would be recommending bodies.

Phil Wilson has long been one of the world's great jazz trombonists. He made a spectacular entrance into the jazz world with his famous solo on "It's a Lonesome Old Town" with the great Woody Herman band of the sixties. As a member of the faculty at the Berklee College of Music, Phil also conducts jazz clinics and performs all over the country with his Jazz Sextet.

Letters to The Editor

To the Nation as a whole, unemployment is a worry. To those who are hit by it, it is a tragedy.

If we think that the hoped-for pick-up in the economy will be a complete cure, we are wrong. Too many who have lost their jobs will not find others for which they are fitted and which will pay them what they were getting. Too many who have no jobs never had them.

The Ford Foundation Letter of February 1, 1983 reports the results of a survey which are indeed sobering. With a national unemployment rate of about 11%, and 12 million unemployed, nearly 40% of that number were under 25. Among those between 16 and 19, the rate was 24%, and for black persons in that age group, it was 50%. The non-working youths include many school drop-outs; and the group is generally lacking in skills and work experience.

In earlier days, almost any young person who wanted work could find it, at farming, working on highways, digging ditches, or working in a factory, office or store. There have since been changes that are not likely to be reversed.

Farming once occupied about 40% of the population; according to recent estimates, this may now be as little a as 2%; although as a result of growing efficiency, more is produced for the market.

Highway construction uses more machinery and fewer hands; employees need skills, and many of them belong to unions who see to it that their members are employed first.

I have heard that it is possible to build a ditch-digging machine that will do as much work as forty men with picks and shovels. (Of course such a machine will cost thousands of dollars, and the highly-skilled union member who operates it will get as much per hour as the forty men used to get.)

Manufacturing industries are constantly devising new machines and new methods to cut down on man-hours; and will continue the trend, as they must do in their attempts to catch up with each other and with the Japanese.

Retail trade is more and more self-service and cash-and-carry. Offices are more mechanized. Human beings who work with the machines must be skilled and must be on their toes to become more so.

There are two other things that are probably true, though I have no statistics. The non-working youths will increase disproportionately because many of them come from families with above-average birth rates. And, not working can become a habit that may not be broken as long as a person can get by somehow without working. It does seem more than a coincidence that the 16 to 25 group is not only above average in the incidence of unemployment, but also in the incidence of crime.

What's to be done? Congress will be under pressure to do something that may cost in the billions. Will the legislators design the plan with the CCC, the Job Corps and CETA as models? With all of them, the intentions were better than the results. The plight of a significant segment of the population nevertheless can't be overlooked or denied.

It is no secret that the unemployment during the Roosevelt Era was finally overcome; but only by our involvement in World War II.

That method may have been successful; but it is not good.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

In reference to the editorial, "Leading the World", February 2, 1983:

Does Ivan drink because a bureaucrat (US, Federal) went by the book on road surfaces, sidewalks & standards, thus slowing down his fellow comrades on Route 6 in Mattapoisett and Marion? What does this have to do with Russia and their version of history? When the editor compares the United States with Russia, is he trying to make us look bad or good -- our weapons worth a king's (and taxpayer's) ransom vs. a Russian car (prohibitive luxury), US farmers paid by bureaucrats not to grow grain vs. Russian bureaucratically controlled farmers who can't grow a thing it seems, even if they wanted to, and Russian drinkers vs. Route 6's "bureaucratically controlled" 3 layers of asphalt and 8" curbs?

Maybe it would help the editor if he used an outline or the "American History Month/Patrick Henry" letter to the editor following Ivan's complaint as an editorial guide.

Editorials, when well written, good grammar aside, should offer readers an opinion, pro or con, on a topic of choice, researched and coherent. Not some silly preamble written by an editor/owner who can't make up his mind on how he should present his point(s), if he is trying to make a point.

United States speaks for half an hour on a theme which he and his speech writers have labored for over a month. Immediately after, a commentator spends three quarters of an hour of your life telling you exactly what the President said. Directly after that, 2 or 3 commentators spend 2 hours of your life analyzing the meaning of the words and forecasting the result.

Some turn off the TV and think about the original. I am one of those. I think it insulting to assume that all meat must be cut fine and spoon fed. We all march to different drummers and we all have the means to reach a conclusion.

An editorial which provokes thought and conversation is my preference. Last week I used Route 6 to illustrate the result of going up the hill with a bucket to beg funds. What we ended up with was 3 times the road surface we needed and ½ the road to use. To focus on the ultimate in big government I pointed to Ivan who drinks a lot. The poor devil doesn't have to ask anything. He is employed, he is housed, he is fed and he is clothed and he doesn't need a road at all. He has no transportation and if he did he would not be allowed to travel far. Ivan doesn't even have to think. So he drinks. Isn't it peculiar that one who has every care lifted from his shoulders by competent bureaucrats is not a contented individual?

If editors have all the solutions, how is it that we continue to have so many problems?

Cardinal-Titmouse-Mockingbird Census

If you find yourself eye to eye with a cardinal, a mockingbird or a tufted titmouse over the weekend of February 12th and 13th the Massachusetts Audubon Society would like to know about it. Birds of these species appearing at backyard feeders in New England will be counted as part of the Society's annual census.

Mockingbirds, cardinals and titmice are birds usually found in southern climates. Recently cardinals and mockingbirds became year-round residents of New England. In the past, few titmice entered this region; however, since 1957 the numbers of both cardinals and tufted titmouse have increased sharply and the number of mockingbirds has almost doubled over the last several years.

The population shift to the northeast by these birds has been explained by the popularity of backyard feeders and the planting of fruit-bearing trees in suburban areas and the warming trend in the region's climate.

How are these species of birds identified? Male cardinals are bright red and females are a warm orange-brown with a red bill. Tufted titmice are all grey, and both titmice and cardinals have crests. Mockingbirds are grey, robin-sized birds with long tails edged in white. They flash prominent white wing spots when they fly.

This winter has been especially mild and Director Hankin will point out the evidence of animal activity and the adaptations of plants along this trail. Due to the warm weather, the Slocum River has not frozen and many species of birds can be seen feeding in or along the river from the Osprey Point Trail.

The trail passes through a section of hollies which are evergreen and provide some food for wintering birds. Because so many of the trees on this trail are deciduous and therefore lose their leaves, observing some of the geologic features of this area is best done at this time of the year.

in South Dartmouth, will be told at the February 17th meeting of the Westport Historical Society at 8 p.m.

The speaker, Gil Fernandez of Horseneck Road, South Dartmouth, is a board member of the Dartmouth Historical Commission as well as its chief photographer. His presentation outlines the beginnings of the beach colony which was developed shortly after the Civil War by a group of summer camping enthusiasts. The talk will be illustrated by black and white slides made from photographs taken on the site in the 1870's. Scenes of "Old Padanaram" and environs will be projected. Most of the pictures are from the photographic library of the Dartmouth Historical Commission.

Former editor and teacher with many years' involvement in photography, Mr. Fernandez is perhaps best known to Westporters for his work in helping the local Osprey population to survive in southeastern Massachusetts. With his wife Jo he has presented numerous slide lectures about their Osprey management to audiences throughout the northeast. Currently he is photographing old houses in Dartmouth as part of a team fielded by the town's Historical Commissions to make a comprehensive survey of the historical resources of the town. The project involves the identification and registration of approximately 250 historical structures and sites. The undertaking is made possible by a matching grant from the Massachusetts Historical Commission, and will be completed by the Fall of this year.

The talk will take place in the Pacific Union Congregational Church, 526 Old County Road in the Head of Westport. The public is cordially invited to attend. There will be a small admission charge for those who are not members of the Historical Society. Refreshments will be served.

The Weekly "Buzzard"

MATTAPOISETT HISTORICAL SOCIETY NOTES

Mattapoisett and Marion are most fortunate communities because of the pure water supply they have. With that thought we refer to a column in the August 2, 1890 issue of "THE BUZZARD" (a local summer newspaper of the 1890's). We quote:

"King Philip's spring has for generations been known to the inhabitants of the region. Its pure and cool water has for ages flowed up through the sand in a constant stream. To a lover of good water, a visit to this spring is a matter of course. The source of the spring lies in the hilly region to the north, where the water permeates the rocks and loose strata to some depth. The water goes below the surface far enough to be unaffected by the changing temperature of the surface or by the warmth of the interior. A small building has been put over the spring, and a tank and stone pipe have been arranged, so that any quantity of water may be drawn out when needed.

"The water is of remarkable purity, of sparkling appearance, and of a very palatable taste. The small amount of solid matter which it contains serves only to make the water more agreeable to the taste.

"The water is very cool, and flows at the rate of 200 barrelsful a day. The King Philip Crystal Spring Water Company, who have control of the spring, have a large sale for the water, especially in New Bedford, where pure water is in great demand as an antidote for the lurid liquid that comes from Acushnet. If you want to enjoy life for once, throw down that whiskey bottle and go out to King Philip's Spring."

Ninety-three years later the spring is still there on Crystal Spring Road and until the early '40's the water was bottled and sold locally -- mostly to the summer visitors at the beaches as they didn't have town water at that time. The water is pure and year round is 40 to 42 degrees. It was also advertised as a cure for dyspepsia! Carboys, large bottles encased in wooden frames, were used to transport the water. The spring is CORRECTION: We erroneously dated Romeo's Package Store as post 1860 (January 12th edition). Romeo's was built in 1839 and was a doctor's office. The feeling is that the building was moved to where it is now some time later. The oldtimers had a way of moving buildings and it surely confuses the history buffs.

Tobey Basketball

TOBEY MEDICS VS WAREHAM POLICE DEPT.

Tom Spiro, manager of the Tobey Medics basketball team, has announced a forthcoming game with the Wareham Police Department on March 10th at the Wareham High School Gym with tap off time set at 7:30 p.m.

The Tobey squad has been practicing weekly and have hopes of sending a team with winning capabilities to the court.

At present no rivalry based on past experience exists, however, if previous encounters are the norm, a tense rivalry will exist in the years ahead.

The Tobey Medics last year eked out a 2 point victory over Jordan Hospital. The final score of that game was 54-52. Both teams are confident of victory, so the game will provide an evening's entertainment for all interested fans.

Scott Joplin, who lived from 1868-1917, left several dozen piano rags in addition to songs, dance music, marches, and two operas. One of the operas, "Treemonisha", has been preserved and was recorded in the late 1970s.

Joplin became known overnight by the use of his music for the successful movie, "The Sting", in 1974. Some of the music from that film will be played on each program.

DYNAMIC YOUNG CELLIST IN CONCERT

On Tuesday, February 15th the area concert season will be enriched by the recital of the Swiss cellist, Markus Stocker. This presentation is the second in the 1982-83 season of the Greater New Bedford Concert Series and will be held in the Bronspiegel Auditorium of the New Bedford High School. The concert will start at 8:15 p.m.

Mr. Stocker began his concert career in 1972 and since that time has achieved growing success and acclaim. He has toured the United States, Israel and the Far East repeatedly. At his American debut, in Cleveland, the audience and the critics received Mr. Stocker with great enthusiasm, speaking of his "phenomenal technique, a large and handsome tone and a good musical sense". He is a regular guest artist at such prestigious European Music Festivals as the Salzburg Festival, the Lucerne Festival, the Gstaad Festival and the Assisi Festival. He participates, also, in many chamber music concerts. Mr. Stocker lives in Switzerland, where he is Professor of Music at the Conservatories of Zurich and Winterthur.

Mr. Stocker launched his career in of the American Heart Association, stated, "I would like to put everyone on roller skates...not just once and a while...but as a routine...as an exercise good for the heart and arteries." These words are the foundation of the "Skate for Heart" program, which is designed to promote roller skating as an excellent form of cardiovascular exercise, while raising funds to support the vital heart research and community service programs of the American Heart Association.

"Hot Wheels is very proud to participate in this nationwide program," said Mr. Norman LaCroix, manager of the recreation center. "We were the pioneer rink in Massachusetts to sponsor the Skate for Heart program, and we will continue to do our part to support the American Heart Association in the fight against this country's #1 killer for years to come."

The top fund-raiser for the skate-a-thon will receive a Sony Walkman plus a pass for one year's free skating, courtesy of Hot Wheels. Additional prizes will include: satin jackets, gym bags, t-shirts, and "Skate for Heart" key chains. Also, free refreshments will be served during the event to all skaters.

Each participant is invited to skate at Hot Wheels for one public session

Making An Electric Heater Heat Better

Homeowners using electric portable heaters to help make a cold or drafty room comfortable ought to pay heed to a few tips that will help the heater heat better.

- Heaters should be properly sized. An undersized heater may cost less to purchase, but it will not do the job. An oversized heater will warm the room, but will waste heat and provide uneven temperature distribution.
- Heaters should be placed along exterior walls and under large windows. Drapes, furniture and other items should not be placed directly in front of the heater.
- Portable heaters should have built-in thermostats to save energy and provide maximum comfort. An electric timer is a handy addition.

Student Financial Aid

Now is the time to apply for federal and state loans and grants for higher education. Those needing financial help in pursuing a degree -- high school seniors, students presently in college, and older adults -- should not delay in sending in their applications for the new academic year beginning in September 1983.

"The good news is that aid is still available," according to John C. Hoy, President of the New England Board of Higher Education. "Last year Congress for the most part resisted Reagan's proposed cuts in federally Guaranteed Student Loans, federal Pell Grants, and state-federal Student Incentive Grants. Students should not panic and assume that it is useless to ask for help for the upcoming year."

Students must complete the application forms for 1983 and 1984 quickly and accurately. Two months behind schedule, the U. S. Department of Education just released the federal forms. Because of this delay, parents and students are faced with added pressure to send in the completed forms quickly.

The confusion will probably be most acute among students whose parents did not attend college. "We urge community leaders to give special encouragement and assistance to first-generation college students," Hoy requested. "It would be tragic for this most vulnerable group to give up because of misinformation or lack of moral support."

The following are the programs most relied on by college students:

Federal Pell Grants are available to students whose families earn less than $26,000 a year. The grants (named for their founder, Rhode Island's Senator Claiborne Pell) can range up to $1800 a year.

Guaranteed Student Loans (obtained from banks and insured by the federal government) are automatically available to a student whose family income is below $30,000. The interest rate is 9%. Undergraduates can borrow as much as $2500 a year and graduate and professional students $5000 a year.

For those with family incomes above $30,000 financial need must be demonstrated. Factors considered are family circumstances and the number of children in the family. Many middle-income families are successful in demonstrating some financial need.

Most state scholarships, loans, and state work-study programs are also based on financial need.

For information about how to apply for these and other categories of financial aid, students should contact their high school or college counselor, the financial aid officers at those campuses they are interested in attending, and a bank officer at their family bank. Other helpful sources of information are the Massachusetts Financial Aid Hotlien at 800-343-3713 operating in the evenings until mid-February, the Massachusetts Board of Regents Scholarship Office at 727-9420, and the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation at 426-9434.

NEBHE is a congressionally authorized regional, non-profit agency that seeks to encourage cooperation and efficient use of resources among colleges and universities in New England. Basic funding comes from the region's six states and New England-based corporations.

signed by the Advisory Board to ensure the development of quality projects which will reach and develop new audiences, expand appreciation of the arts and create/mount new works with the potential for high visibility and public participation.

According to Clara Wainwright, originator of Boston's "First Night" and Co-Chairperson of "The Fund For the Arts" Advisory Board, "These grants will give the artist a rare opportunity to be the initiator of collaborative efforts with an institution."

"The Fund For the Arts", a tax-exempt, charitable trust, was established in November 1981 by WBZ-TV as part of its public service campaign to foster awareness for arts and culture in Massachusetts. The Advisory Board, an independent group of leaders from the arts, government and business community, was formed to oversee the administration of the "Fund".

Over the course of the past year, WBZ-TV has devoted itself to innovative fundraising events such as co-sponsorships of the "Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater" and the "Joffrey Ballet" performances and "Concerts-On-The Common" in an effort to bolster its initial contribution of $75,000 in matching donations to the "Fund".

According to Sy Yanoff, Vice President and General Manager of WBZ-TV, "This initial disbursement of grants to Massachusetts' artists and organizations in need of support is the result of many collaborative efforts which have taken place in our community. This seems like an appropriate time to say 'thank you' to all of the individuals and businesses who have contributed to the establishment of "The Fund For the Arts". It is our hope that through their continued support grant sizes will steadily increase over the coming years."

Interested Massachusetts artists and non-profit organizations may receive a copy of the funding criteria by sending a self-addressed, stamped,

MAIR-DAVIS DUO TO PERFORM AT SMU

The Mair-Davis Duo, one of the few professional duos in the world who play chamber music for guitar and mandolin, will perform at Southeastern Massachusetts University on February 10th. The free, public concert will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall (Room 153) of the College of Visual and Performing Arts (Group VI) Building adjacent to parking lots 8 and 9.

Marilyn Mair and Mark Davis are starting their eighth season of chamber concerts and for the past three years have made annual tours to California and Europe.

Their first of two records, "Music for Guitar and Mandolin", includes European music of different eras. Their second, to be released this winter, is all South American music, including an original sonata dedicated to the duo by the Uruguayan composer Guido Santorsola.

Davis is head of the guitar program at SMU and is assistant director of the Providence Mandolin Orchestra. Mair teaches courses in the history of American music and jazz at Roger Williams College in Rhode Island. The married couple live in Providence with their two children.

This recital is funded by the SMU Music Guild, the New England Foundation for the Arts, the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, and the National Endowment for the Arts.
